Meandering Along the Main Stem By WASH FAYETTE

Those hard-working members of Fayette Grange, who served lunch at the McCoy sale the other day, cleaned up nearly $600 for the Grange, and that is about the biggest income from a lunch in the county's history. I obtained the above information from a prominent member of Fayette Grange, and then I said to him:

"Who was the guy who took 90 pounds of hamburger out to the sale, left it in his car, and during the rush of work completely forgot about it?"

His face flushed and he said very, very meekly:

"I'm the guy," and we both had a good laugh.

"It cost around $27," he added ruefully.

Most of you folks (I hope) have been in the Court House and have noticed the row of seats placed about the walls, surrounding the open stairways, on the same floor as the common pleas court room.

One day this week a girl who had been called as a witness in a divorce case gave the seats a new name, and it tickled me so that I am passing it on.

She was telling of waiting for the case to be called up, and said: "We sat on those bleachers at the head of the stairway."

I had never heard them called bleachers before, but I am wondering if she was very far wrong at that.

So far as I know there is only one (or used to be) garage in the United States where a "good luck" horseshoe is placed on the grill work of the radiator of every automobile that is parked in the garage.

Occasionally, I notice one of the yellow tin horseshoes, about four inches across, fastened to the radiator of a car parked at the curb here. I saw one Wednesday.

On the horseshoes is the following wording: "Keep me on your radiator for good luck. 12th Street Garage, Wheeling, W. Va."

I have picked up two of those horseshoes during my travels, and like everyone else, I allowed the horseshoes to remain on the radiator indefinitely.

3 BOTTLES OF RUM BONUS FOR OHIOANS

Stock Up To Beat New Tax Is Liquor Chief's Tip

COLUMBUS, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Ohio liquor ration card holders may purchase three extra bottles of rum as a special bonus between next Monday and March 1, Liquor Director Don A. Fisher announced today.

The new bonus applies to persons who already have bought their allotment for the current ration period as well as those who have not yet made purchases, Fisher explained.

The current allotment is a quart or fifth of any distilled spirit, plus an additional unit of rum, imported gin or cordial.

Under the new bonus plan, purchasers using their cards for the first time in the current period this would be able to buy four bottles of rum in addition to the distilled spirit allotment, the director said.

Fisher said the new bonus would enable rum purchasers to "stock up" before imposition of a new federal tax of 60 cents a fifth on rum provided in legislation now awaiting the president's signature. The new tax is anticipated in some circles about March 1, the director said.

SAILOR'S LUCK HOLDS PUT OFF ILL-FATED PLANE

CINCINNATI, Feb. 11.—(AP)—The luck that rode with Navy Machinist Mate Ralph Burgin when his ship was torpedoed in the Pacific, stayed with him today—but some higher priority passenger went to his or her death aboard an American airliner which crashed near Memphis.

Burgin, 33, flying home for his first leave in 18 months, was aboard the ill-fated craft until it reached Dallas, Tex., he telegraphed his wife, Helen. Removed here because of the priority, he went to Memphis on another plane.

Conquest of Marshalls Goes On and New Attacks Made On Japs on Wake Island

By MORRIE LANDSBERG
(By The Associated Press)

The Japanese faced a further breakdown of vital southern defenses today while American naval and air squadrons hacked away at the enemy's severed line of island bases in the Central Pacific.

Nipponese forces once dominant in all of the Bismarck Archipelago suffered a decisive defeat when Australian and American troops joined hands below Saidor, New Guinea, to complete occupation of the jungle-covered Huon Peninsula.

Successful conclusion of the five months long campaign not only gave the Allies control of an additional 150 miles of New Guinea's northeastern coastline, but, General MacArthur announced today, the offensive cost the Japanese the bulk of approximately 14,000 men.

The Australians who swept up the Huon Peninsula and the U. S. troops which met 10 miles south of the American beachhead at Saidor now command positions from which to strike at enemy

Political Feuds Erupt in Bolivia and Colombia

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Several changes in the Bolivian cabinet are expected to be announced tomorrow.

The independent newspaper Ultima Hora said today there have been no restrictions in the government as yet but several changes are expected. It denied reports broadcast abroad that Maj. Alberto Taborga, Interior Minister of the Coup D'Etat government which seized power Dec. 20, had been imprisoned, but said it was rumored Taborga would be replaced by Lt. Col. Alfredo Pacheco, chief of air forces.

OVER IN COLOMBIA
BOGOTA, Colombia, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Release from jail of Senator Laureano Gomez, leader of the Conservative party, appeared today to have dampened opposition hopes of developing a political fight into a revolution against the Liberal government of acting President Dario Echandia.

The government, in complete control of the situation, announced that the two-day agitation, which produced many sharp clashes between demonstrators of the two major political parties, was "now closed completely."

REPORTS EXAGGERATED
PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 11.—(AP)—President Alfonso Lopez of Colombia said today it was his information that the unrest which followed the arrest of an opposition political leader in his country had cleared up.

The president, visiting here, indicated he believed accounts of the disorders had been exaggerated.

Ohio's Governor Made Favorable Impression in Capital, Supporters Believe, When He Scored 'Confused' Program And 'Coddling' of Labor Leaders in Opening Speech of Presidential Campaign

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Big, smiling John W. Bricker, who is governor of Ohio and wants to be president, took a curtain cue for the third act today of what his friends were frankly billing as a critical Washington preview of the man they think can win the Republican nomination.

Given an unofficial once-over by the capital news corps at a packed press conference and the applause and cheers of a Republican crowd at a Lincoln birthday banquet last night, Bricker today faced another curious-minded group at a National Press Club luncheon.

Confident he was passing muster, Bricker supporters already were congratulating themselves on having put on a good show for the third-term governor. They made plans to send him off next month to the west coast where a potential rival, Wendell L. Willkie, is the current political attraction.

Speaking for the group that would like to see Bricker nominated, Senator Taft (R., Ohio) said he thought the 50-year-old governor had made a good impression.

Bricker left no doubt where he stands on some of the big issues of the day in his banquet talk and at his press conference. He struck out at labor unrest, advocating wartime anti-strike laws and dismissing the National Service Act proposal endorsed by President Roosevelt as "no answer to this problem at this late date."

"The time has come," he declared, "to support the millions of

COLD WAVE AND SNOW IS COMING

(By The Associated Press)
A heavy snow fell over much of Ohio today, prelude to a severe cold wave expected to sweep in from the northwest Friday night.

The bulk of the snow seemed to reach across the central and north portion of the state during the morning hours.

It was two inches deep in Columbus at 10 A. M. and falling heavily. Cleveland had four inches during the night with more anticipated during the afternoon. Two inches lay over Akron, where drifts piled up in some places.

Thousands of persons were late for work in Cincinnati because of a transportation jam created by trolley wires snapping under a coat of ice that came in on the heels of an overnight fall of less than a half inch of snow.

The storm, moving ahead of a bitter cold wave that gripped most of the west and north this morning, quenched at least partially one of Ohio's most severe droughts. Winter crops are in bad condition and experts said last week snow or rain must come soon if any harvest is to be had.

FIERCE ASSAULT MADE BY NAZIS ON BEACHHEAD

Yank Bombers Hit Frankfurt While Russians Mop Up Germans in Trap

By RICHARD McMURRAY
(By The Associated Press)

President Roosevelt said today a very tense situation existed in the heavy fighting in the Rome beachhead where the Germans asserted they had captured the railway station of Carroceta (Aprilia), northern stronghold in the slender Allied position.

Mr. Roosevelt said we were praying for good weather to permit application of our sea and air power. Algiers advices said the outnumbered Americans and Britons had turned every available plane against the enemy, although a dispatch from the front itself said heavy rain yesterday curtailed aerial operations and permitted the enemy to reform his attack.

The Berlin communique said 4,000 Allies had surrendered in the beachhead and that 89 tanks had been captured or destroyed. All the German assertions lacked confirmation.

Algiers dispatches described the Allied aerial attacks as one of the greatest ground support operations ever undertaken by air forces.

The enemy hunted incessantly with tanks and men and cannon for a soft spot in Allied defenses and rolled up a fifth division for the attacks. All indications were the big German effort to throw the Americans and Britons into the sea had not yet begun, and that the intense air blows of yesterday behind enemy lines may have delayed it. The Germans, however, retained the initiative on the ground.

Even Fortresses and Liberators were drawn from strategic bombing tasks to support beachhead positions. The action was reminiscent of the campaigns at Kasserine Pass in Tunisia and at Salerno below Naples when overpowering use of Allied air power tipped the scales for victory.

The violent battle of Cassino, 60 miles to the east, raged on without decision although the Americans "made further progress" and repulsed "a very strong counterattack." The "progress" was the capture of five large buildings.

YOUTH CONFESSES 'SABOTEUR' THREATS

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—(AP)—A 16-year-old Bronx messenger boy, who the FBI said was enacting the role of a Nazi Gestapo chieftain and saboteur in telephone threats to destroy New York's bridges and tunnels, was in the custody of police and federal agents today.

Although the FBI declined to identify the boy, police booked him on a malicious mischief charge as James Gerrity. His calls to the FBI resulted this week in a heavily augmented guard on vulnerable structure in the Metropolitan area.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Feb. 10.—(AP)—A demand for criminal prosecution in the death of two-year-old Jule Ann Fulmer, who was swallowed by the earth in a mine cave-in, arose today in this mining city built on a shelf over active and abandoned anthracite workings.

The city council resolved proceedings against coal companies should be instituted "if criminal negligence is disclosed" in a coroner's inquest.

The council met three days after the earth gave away under Jule Ann's feet as she toddled along a quiet residential street. Rescuers recovered her body 32 hours later.

Charlie Chaplin Accused Of Mann Act Violation; Prison If Found Guilty

By JAMES LINDSLEY
Slight, white-haired, dapper Charlie Chaplin, who as the lovable little tramp comedian used to play with deft fingers on a world's heartstrings in the realm of film mimicry, today faced the stern reality of a federal indictment charging him with Mann Act violation.

The 54-year-old, four-times-married comedian was accused of the additional felony of conspiracy as a federal grand jury late yesterday concluded its inquiry into his relationship with red-haired Joan Berry, 23, Chaplin's former protegee who asserts Chaplin is the father of her 4-months-old daughter.

Six others were indicted along with Chaplin for an asserted conspiracy to deprive Miss Berry of her constitutional rights following her arrest on a vagrancy charge January 2, 1943, in Beverly Hills.

The Mann Act charges against Chaplin are not connected with the alleged conspiracy. One count alleges that on October 5, 1942, he transported Miss Berry from Los Angeles to New York City with intent to have her "engage in illicit sex relations with him and live with the said defendant as his mistress."

PLANE EXPLODES AFTER PLUNGING IN DEEP WATER

Coast Guard Drag Lines Locate Part of Wreckage In Mississippi River

MEMPHIS, Feb. 11.—(AP)—The coast guard reported today that drag lines had located part of an American Airlines transcontinental plane that crashed into the Mississippi River with 24 persons aboard.

A cryptic radio message from patrol boats to headquarters here said merely "piece of plane found." Later contact with the boat said it "definitely" was part of the plane.

The coast guard and U. S. army engineers reported hearing the plane flying low overhead and one said he saw it hit the water and sink seconds after being enveloped in flames.

"There was a terrific explosion and fire," said Charley Williams, watchman for an engineer's crew. "It seemed to sink immediately."

When Williams and Foreman W. R. Wellborn reached the scene by boat, they found no trace of the big plane, which was en route from Los Angeles to New York.

Williams said the plane was on its course for the Memphis airport where it was due at 11:38 P.M. (CWT).

"It was quite low," Williams said, "and appeared to be tipped a little to the right but the engines seemed to be all right and there were no flames. It angled into the river about half way across."

Coast guard boats and searching parties, including one from the airlines Memphis office and another agents from the Federal Bureau of Investigation, searched the area without success for three hours before daylight. Grappling hooks were to be used but rivermen said delay might be expected in discovering the plane if it broke up in the swift current before hitting bottom.

At least 10 of the 21 passengers aboard the plane, Flight No. 2, which stopped at Dallas and Little Rock, were members of the armed forces. The three crewmen were Capt. D. B. Francis, first officer R. R. Majors and stewardess Dovie Holybee, all based at Fort Worth.

Weather conditions at the time the plane reported itself near the river—seven minutes before due in Memphis—were described as "scattered, broken clouds" with temperature near freezing.

The river channel is 22 feet deep at the scene of the reported crash. Coast guard boats patrolled the waters but dragging of the bottom was delayed until daylight.

Rivermen said there could be considerable delay in locating the plane. They said if it broke up it could wash downstream.

Among passengers who lost their seats on the liner but reached Memphis on a later flight were Walter H. Kilbourne, vice-president of the American Aviation Corporation at Jamestown, N. Y., and Ralph T. Burgin, machinist's mate, first class, of Cincinnati, en route home on leave. They were put off at Dallas by persons holding higher than No. 4 priorities.

SERVICEMEN, WOMEN STILL HAVE VOTE CARDS FILED

COLUMBUS, Feb. 11.—(AP)—Common Pleas Judge John R. King today enjoined the Franklin County Board of Elections from removing the cards of servicemen and women from the file of eligible voters.

His action, an alternative writ returnable at a hearing set for next Thursday, followed on the heels of a suit filed by Prosecutor Ralph J. Bartlett to compel the board to restore to the files names of persons in service who haven't voted for two years.

MUSTERING OUT APPLICATIONS ARE TAKEN NOW

Blanks Available Through R. B. Tharp, Legion Adjutant For Mustering-out Pay

Applications for mustering-out pay from any branch of the U. S. armed forces are now in the hands of R. B. Tharp, adjutant of the Paul H. Hughey Post 25 of the American Legion here.

Although his present supply of blanks is limited, he expects to receive a supplement soon which will take care of men and women already eligible for mustering-out pay. Some applications have been made already, Tharp said.

Explaining the payment, Tharp said each member of the armed forces who has been honorably discharged from active service on or after December 7, 1941, is eligible for payment. The term "armed forces" means "any member of the Army of the United States or any of its respective components, and any member of the Woman's Army Corps who was discharged under honorable conditions on account of disability," the special bulletin of the American Legion says. Mustering-out pay will be made only once to any one person, the bulletin continues.

Tharp said the original or a certified copy of the discharge papers must go with the application for pay. Applicants may have their papers recorded at the county recorder's office and send a copy of the recording, which, with the county seal, will be accepted by the government, Tharp stated.

Amount of payments, as set forth in the bulletin, are: "$300 will be paid to persons who, having performed active service for 60 days or more, have served outside the continental limits of the United States or in Alaska. . . $200 will be paid to persons who, having performed active service for 60 days or more, have served no part thereof outside the continental limits of the United States or in Alaska. . . $100 will be paid to persons who have performed active service for less than 60 days."

special committee on postwar economic policy and planning. Murray is chairman of a military affairs subcommittee.

The act would assure to every war contractor compensation for contract termination, including payment for expenses and an allowance for profit on the work done on an uncompleted contract. It provides for 90 percent of a contractor's claim against the government within 30 days of termination date but makes the payment subject to readjustment of a final settlement of the claim. The government would be required to give contractors 30 days notice of intention to terminate contracts.

Senator Pepper (D-Fla.) proposes a relaxation of the Little Steel Formula to permit a 3 percent boost in the income of every wage earner.

He estimates it will cost $1,500 a year to maintain an enlisted man in the service after the war to keep him from overcrowding the labor market and only $900 a year to pay for his education.

POMONA GRANGE WILL COLLECT DUES ONCE MORE

Treasury Surplus Dwindles To Make Dues Necessary After Years

Fayette County Pomona Grange, for years the only Pomona grange in the state which charged no dues, will begin collecting dues again.

Passed unanimously at the meeting Thursday night in Madison Good Will Grange Hall in Madison Mills, the measure was voted against because the treasury surplus, built up years ago when Reuben Rankin was Pomona treasurer, had dwindled alarmingly.

Because of the surplus, Pomona voted to discontinue payment of dues until the revenue became necessary again. With the treasury near rock-bottom, the unanimous vote was taken after Master Loren Hynes and Ralph Nisley, past county deputy explained that Pomona is handicapped in its function because of lack of funds. They led the discussion of the measure before vote was taken.

To give each of the six subordinate granges in the county an opportunity to be host to Pomona grange, once each year, the meeting schedule was changed to bi-monthly, instead of quarterly sessions.

Hynes announced the new legislative committee, Ralph Nisley, chairman, W. W. Montgomery and Warren Hutchison, Edgar Coil, Minnie Coil, Roger Hays and Marilyn Hays were given obligations and secret work in the fifth degree by Hynes and Nisley.

Mrs. Charles Graham, Marshall grange, was elected chaplain to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Mr. Elmer McCoy.

A movie, "The Birth of Liberty," was shown by Robert Creamer, master of Forest Shade grange, during the lecture hour in the absence of W. J. Hilly, lecturer of Pomona.

Refreshments were served after the meeting to the unusually large crowd, including representatives from each of the six county granges. The next meeting will be in the Good Hope Grange Hall on April 13.

Republican party and in defeating the New Deal philosophy of government than I am in being president of the United States."

Urging cooperation with other countries to preserve future peace, Bricker called for an overhauling of fiscal policies he said would be necessary if the United States is to be strong enough to "help build an international house upon a solid rock."

Sen. Harold H. Burton of Cleveland said "it was a good, straightforward speech. His statements on the domestic situation were clarifying. His statements on the tax situation were particularly good."

Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth, daughter of the late President Theodore Roosevelt, termed it "a smashing, fighting speech."

Rep. Joseph W. Martin, Jr., of Massachusetts, Republican floor leader, and former national chairman, declared "it was a fine, fighting speech. It was a notable contribution to the Republican campaign of 1944," and former National Chairman Henry P. Fletcher called it "an upstanding, fighting Republican speech."

The audience of more than 1,200 persons in the Mayflower Hotel applauded and cheered frequently, especially when Bricker mentioned wartime strikes and asked for legislation to take government power out of the hands of "arrogant bureaucrats."

Governor Bricker left Ohio members of Congress convinced that he had answered emphatically contentions he is trying to win the Republican nomination for president without definite commitments on policy.

They said the Governor made himself clear on at least three important points in his speech before highly placed Republicans from Ohio and elsewhere at a Lincoln Day dinner last night.

Representative Thomas A. Jenkins of Ironton, Dean of Ohio Republicans in the House, told reporters Bricker would not resort to "campaign oratory" in his contest against "all comers" for the presidency.

The Governor, said Representative Walt E. Brehm of Logan, would call on Congress to pass stringent legislation against strikes in wartime, carry forward the war program of the Army and Navy Departments, and oppose strenuously a national service law.

"Our Governor put on the charm, and most people liked him," said Representative George H. Bender of Cleveland, "He surely handles himself well."

Bender and Representative Robert Jones said Governor Bricker surprised news men with his ability to answer quickly questions on many subjects at a press conference two hours after his arrival in the capital.

Republican diners cheered Bricker's assertion that victory in war is not a partisan opportunity.

Bricker supporters registered complete satisfaction as he ended the speech which highlighted his first public appearance as a presidential candidate. He himself said he was amazed at the welcome he received from Democrats and Republicans alike.

The Governor suggested that the warm greetings of campaign foes contradicted any idea that politics is out of line with Americanism, for he said, "Partisan campaigns are as American as ham and eggs."

Radio listeners heard Bricker at his best despite a busy day that started with his arrival before most Washingtonians were up. He met reporters for a news conference at 10:30, held a two-hour reception at the capitol, and listened to oratory at the Lincoln Day dinner, preliminary to his own speech.

The Governor was applauded for praising the conduct of the war and pledging continuance of an all-out fight if he becomes president.

"That is true," he said frankly when asked if he thought President Roosevelt deserved credit for American successes.

"But it is time for a change."

"I live," Bricker said, "with the people who feel the impact of an expanding system of government in their daily lives and I know their reactions to it. I

RAIN AND SNOW OVER COUNTY

Rain Also Occurs During Early Friday

Starting early Thursday night, snow fell intermittently part of the night, turned to rain and sleet at an early hour Friday morning, and then to snow once more.

As result of sleet and rain, which froze as it fell, traffic was seriously hampered and a few minor wrecks occurred as motor vehicles came together or slipped from the roads.

About one inch of snow fell during Thursday night, and this was being augmented as Friday advanced, and the temperature continued to drop.

The peak temperature Thursday was 45 degrees, the minimum 20 and at 8 A. M. the reading was 27 degrees. A year ago .62 of an inch of rain fell and the peak temperature was 61 degrees.

believe that the safest program for our country lies not in fitful movements of reform and reaction but in steady progress through adherence to our representative system of government."

He said bluntly "a law should be enacted by Congress for the prohibition of strikes in time of war."

Sub-zero temperatures also prevailed in most sections of Nebraska and Minnesota, but were above zero in Indiana, Illinois and Michigan. Chicago, blanketed by fresh snow, reported 22.

A heavy, wind-whipped snow storm also struck the northeastern part of the United States today while in a wide section of the already snow-blanketed midwest the season's most severe cold wave drove temperatures far below zero.

Eight to 12 inches of snow was predicted for New York City. An emergency storm warning was issued by the Weather Bureau at Boston, which forecast up to 10 inches in New England. Strong winds and increasing cold were expected to add to hazards throughout the northeast.

Trains arriving in New York City, southern and northern points were running as much as two and a half hours behind schedule. Airplane flights out of La Guardia field, New York, were canceled.

In the midwest, temperatures dipped to as low as 42 below zero in the wake of that area's heaviest snow of the winter. The snow fall ranged up to 11 inches but had ceased in many areas.

20,000 TO BE NEEDED IN OHIO CANNERIES

CLEVELAND, Feb. 14—(AP)—Ohio fruit and vegetable canneries will need 20,000 workers for the season beginning in April. Robert C. Goodwin, War Manpower Commission regional director, reported today. Michigan firms will need 12,000 recruits and Kentucky 3,500, he added.

"In the past we could look to the schools and colleges to furnish many young men to work in food processing establishments during the vacation season," Goodwin declared. "Now these young men are going into the armed forces. . . for that reason we are planning our recruitment now, to make sure all of the food which we grow is processed this year."

THE WAR TODAY

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

The fierce struggle for the Anzio-Nettuno beachhead, south of Rome, looks as though it might become one of the sensational battles of the war—and a bloody one. It isn't great in the sense that it can be decisive, which ever side wins. Its importance lies in no small degree in its moral effect.

The enemy's violent attempt to annihilate the Anglo-American force in the big beachhead is part and parcel of the delaying, psychological war which Hitler is waging in an effort to gain time. He hopes by this to get some lucky break.

We see the same thing on a monumental scale in the Dnieper bend on the Russian front. There the Nazi high command has been risking half a million men in a fantastically dangerous holding operation which is more than half political. He's protecting the gateway to the Balkans to prevent a revolt among his satellites there.

So it is with the Anzio-Nettuno beachhead. Hitler needs a spectacular victory to impress wavering supporters and hand his stricken people a ray of hope. He must persuade friends and foes that Germany is still a mighty power.

The stage setting is perfect. The Allied force is almost at the gates of Rome, after a triumphant amphibious invasion which centered the eyes of the world on the scene. If the Fuehrer can smash us, his propagandists can blow the feat up into a victory as high as the Alps.

Official reports say we have been holding our own. However, the position is difficult for us. The Germans, who apparently possess numerical superiority, are on high ground which overlooks the beachhead. They're flinging everything they can get hold of at our men.

Still, we have air superiority—an invaluable asset—and a naval fleet off shore is backing us up. Officialdom express confidence we shall win the day.

One of those whom Hitler is trying to impress with a beachhead victory is little Finland. The Helsinki government is burning midnight oil over Secretary of State Hull's warning that the Finns must quit Hitlerdom or their blood will be on their own heads.

That's a fair and friendly notice. It's not wholly unwise, to be sure, but it smacks of Auld Lang Syne and certainly is impelled in large degree by the wish to save Finland from herself.

What the Finnish government must recognize is that this is the showdown. Moscow is furious—as witness today's further Red bombing over Finland. Hitler no longer can aid the Finns, and by the same token it's unlikely that his harassed and retreating army could do them much harm if they deserted him.

Only a quick peace with Russia can help Finland—if indeed it isn't too late already. The Finns are unprotected in the path of the Red hurricane. The German withdrawal from Leningrad, clear back into Estonia, has opened the way for a Soviet offense against Finland.

Red Star, medium of the Russian Army, yesterday warned the Finns that the Red forces, not Finnish collaboration with Hitler, would determine Finland's border. That's blunt talk, and the only possible answer must come from Helsinki—it can't come from any of the Allies.

The writing on the wall seems to read clearly that the western Allies aren't going to break relations with Russia over any territorial questions which thus far have arisen. Washington and London might put in a plea for leniency towards Finland if she were smart and quit now, but they aren't going to war over the issue.

EMERGENCY DECLARED FOR DIAPER SERVICE

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 11—(AP)—Mayor Roger Lapham has invoked his war powers—in behalf of approximately 1,000 infants.

Yesterday he declared an emergency and set aside a zoning ordinance so the Superior Diaper Service may resume business in a new location after it had been ousted from its previous place to make way for war housing.

MEN ARE NEEDED TO FILL RANKS OF HOME GUARD

Open House To Be Held at Armory Monday To Receive Public

Company H of the Ohio State Guard here is in need of recruits.

That was the blunt statement of Captain W. B. Hyer as he revealed that 17 guardsmen had gone from the outfit into the armed forces within the past month and added, with significant emphasis that something would have to be done about it now.

Capt. Hyer pointed out that the need to keep this military force at home "at the highest point of strength and efficiency is recognized universally, because it is the only such trained organization remaining for home defense and service for use by civil authorities in case of disaster or disorder."

Because of the drain on manpower by the wartime armed forces, maintenance of the guard company falls on those exempt from military duty and those who have returned from military service with disability releases, Capt. Hyer declared. Discharged veterans of the armed forces, he said, can be of invaluable assistance to the guard company because of their recent service.

Consideration will be given their disability in physical examinations, Capt. Hyer said, in order to utilize their training and experience in training others. He contended those exempt from military service are morally obligated to offer themselves to the home guard in time of war.

All equipment, including uniforms, is furnished without cost by the state, Capt. Hyer pointed out and added that soldiers in the guard are paid for two hours of drill on Monday nights according to grade and at the same rates as those in the armed forces receive for a full day.

Enlistments are for one-year periods. A week of camp also is provided at full pay.

Capt. Hyer emphasized that "it is an honor to serve in the Ohio State Guard and any citizen may be justly proud of having contributed to home defense thus."

Training and service with the state guard was viewed by Capt. Hyer, a veteran of the first World War, as invaluable for the young men expecting to be called for the army, navy, marine corps or coast guard. "Their induction into an unfamiliar life and into strange duties will be made much easier and their chances for promotion will come quicker," he declared. He mentioned especially the training the guardsmen get with a regular army rifle and sub-machine gun in addition to instruction in reading a compass and maps.

Company H drills every Monday night, Capt. Hyer said and added that officers would be glad to discuss enlistment with anyone interested.

Next Monday the company is holding what was described as "open house" at the Armory. There will be a lunch and officers joined in saying not only that "the public is invited" but also in expressing the hope that many would come to get acquainted with the personnel and learn something about their own home military organization.

Negro Harmony Singers To Be At Churches Here

The Kentucky Harmony Singers are, left to right, Miss Ethelda Braxton, Mrs. Louise Braxton, Miss Sara Coleman and Miss Everlena Sims. Miss Sims, ill now with the flu, will be replaced by Mrs. Alma Dews.

Washingtonians will have a chance to hear "the only woman bass singer in America" Sunday, when The Kentucky Harmony Singers, featuring Mrs. Louise Malone Braxton, appear in two churches here.

They will be in the Second Baptist Church at 3 P. M. and at Grace Methodist Church at 7:30 P. M. Mrs. Braxton will speak then on the problems of the colored people. The singers are to be at the First Baptist Church Wednesday, at 7:30 P. M.

Twelve years ago Mrs. Braxton appeared in four churches in Washington C. H. to sing the negro spirituals and songs of the Southland which have characterized her programs since then.

Towering well above six feet, Mrs. Braxton is the granddaughter of a Cherokee Indian chief and a French woman. Her father is a negro. She attended Tuskegee College in Alabama—the college made famous by Booker T. Washington. She has helped to build five schools for negroes in the South—three in Georgia, one in Alabama and one in Mississippi.

Mrs. Braxton's daughter, Miss Ethelda Braxton, is in the group of singers. Another daughter, Pvt. Laura Pauline Braxton, is a WAC, stationed at Camp Gruber, Okla.

NEW P-38 FIGHTER GOES OVER COUNTY

One of the new P-38 twin-motor fighting planes with double fuselage and twin, connected rudders, passed over Fayette County, Thursday afternoon, apparently headed for Wright Field.

The new type of plane is one of the fastest and most deadly of the various types of fighters, and is capable of flying from England to Berlin and return as an escort plane.

It is one of the first of this type of planes reported over Fayette County, and was flying very fast, at about 6,000 feet altitude.

Wartime "Bag-o-Tricks" to conserve eyes and light!

Try this sleight-of-hand with a damp rag. Rub it over your lamp bulbs and lamp reflector bowls—and presto, more light to help you see better. Why? Because dust can hold back as much as 50% of light.

Shade tricks for more light: use white-lined shades; brush silk shades; reline parchment shades, using shelf paper and Scotch tape or flat-white paint. And be sure that shades are deep enough.

Help to conserve also by arranging lamps and furniture so each lamp can if necessary serve two or more people with good light. But be sure each person sits close enough to the lamp.

Russia's Significant Trend

Russia always seems an incredible country to most Americans, and the last development there is perhaps the most incredible of all. In the midst of the greatest war of human history, Russia pauses on her home front to make governmental changes and give her people more freedom.

Ordinarily nations at war, with the military struggle engrossing their attention and taking all their strength, are content to wait for internal changes until the conflict is over. Yet Russia, while fighting powerful Germany with one hand, so to speak, with the other starts remodeling her political structure. And instead of tightening up governmental control, she gives her people more freedom. Apparently, too, this liberalization is not forced by public clamor, but established as a matter of wise public policy.

There will not be simply a vast empire ruled arbitrarily by one man, who has seemed to supplant the former czars. The all-powerful Stalin apparently relinquished some of his power. The 16 separate republics within the Soviet Union, which have a liberal degree of self-government.

The precise role to be played by Stalin, or by any chief of state succeeding him, is not clear. But it does seem as if Russia is preparing to make her federal constitution, adopted nominally a few years ago, a living reality. It may be that we shall yet see a United States of Russia operating somewhat on the model of our own federal system. Who would have thought it?

Demobilization — Thinking Ahead

Three major problems, will press themselves upon the nation's attention at the moment when fighting ceases everywhere. In order of their first speeches, to use the theatrical phrase, those problems will be Demobilization of our Fighting Forces, Conversion to Peacetime Production, and Solution of the Problem of Unemployment.

Demobilization has scarcely been considered in the public prints, yet it is a matter of such staggering and urgent importance that it cannot be ignored. At the end of World War I, we developed two separate schools of thought on the matter of demobilization. The industrial demobilizers wanted to have the men remain in service until some fairly orderly process could be evolved for putting them back into industrial life. The military group, ably accompanied by millions of wives, parents, and relatives insisted upon the speediest possible demobilization of the armed forces and their restoration to their homes. In England, the effort to insist upon the industrial program brought about near mutiny in the army. Our own system speedily became clear—quick demobilization.

It would seem obvious that our government, executive and legislative departments alike, should be readying plans now which would be considering the reconversion of some of our industries, or parts of each of them, to civilian manu-

Pulpit in the Pubs

CHATHAM, Eng.—"The pub is the best place in England to put a point of view to a tolerant audience," said the rector of Chatham, the Rev. J. McCulloch, who recently paid a Sunday night visit to the Red Lion public house to answer religious questions. Now he plans to do the same thing weekly.

Corny Version of the Gold Rush

ST. CATHERINE, Mo.—This goose laid a golden egg. Except that it wasn't a goose but a duck and it wasn't an egg but a gold nugget. Mrs. W. S. Holmes found the nugget after she had killed the duck at her farm home. The story got around that there was gold on the farm and a gold rush was in the making.

Then a jeweler examined the gold and said it probably had dropped out of someone's tooth. The duck mistook it for corn.

Words of Wisdom

There never did, and never will exist anything permanently noble and excellent in the character which is a stranger to the exercise of resolute self-denial.—Walter Scott.

Hints on Etiquette

Don't let your small child make a nuisance of himself or herself on public vehicles. It may seem "cute" to you when the child makes loud remarks about this and that, but it can be most annoying to other passengers who want to talk or read, or just be quiet for a few moments.

Today's Horoscope

If today is your birthday, you should try desperately to overcome your laziness, indifference, and a positive and sometimes cynical manner. You have latent talents that may be developed to your advantage. You can be passionate and excitable, but are usually self-possessed and calm. In love you are not indifferent. Correspondence, travel, literary and artistic activities and business generally are well signified for the next year. Love and domestic affairs also. However, a threat of some unpleasantness exists.

facture, so that upon demobilization at the immediate termination of hostilities, members of our armed forces might be given the opportunity to take producing, civilian jobs in our national economy.

The Nazis Whine

Gen. Sir Harold Alexander has called the German "Huns," and the Nazis have whined in protest. Their protest, broadcast by official sources, shows that they are not only perpetrators of monumental, cynical falsehoods, but also that they are a gang of bullies.

"Germany's conduct of warfare," the broadcast states, "has at all times been marked by the greatest chivalry toward her opponents."

Who, then, are the "opponents" so handsomely treated? Not the people of Lidice; not the nameless but remembered Polish victims of mass murders; not the innocent objects of reprisal executions in other occupied countries.

Germany obviously considers her "opponents" the captured men in Allied uniforms. The treatment of war prisoners is governed by international convention and watched by neutral Red Cross observers. Here the bully's tactics would be discovered and reported. They might bring reprisals against German prisoners in Allied hands.

The bully is afraid of retaliation. He is brutal when he thinks that someone as strong as he won't catch him at it. Only when there is the prospect of his being hurt does he act with decency and boast of "chivalry."

Some Modern Ideas on Infant Feeding

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

THIS IS the first in a series of articles on modern ideas of the medical management of children. Today infant feeding is discussed. Next week feeding in the second and third years of the child's life. There has been no change which modern science has made in the belief that every child should be breast fed if possible. Even if breast feeding can be kept up for only a few weeks or months, even if it has to be supplemented by feedings of cow's milk, it gives the baby a nutritional start in life like nothing else.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

When it is replaced by artificial feeding by cow's milk a few general principles are all that need be known in order for the modern mother to arrange the formula.

Importance of Cleanliness
First, and most important, is cleanliness. The bottles and nipples must be boiled before every feeding. The milk must be pasteurized, or, preferably, boiled. The protein scum which comes to the surface of boiled milk can be skimmed off without danger to the nutritional quality of the milk, since cow's milk has more protein than mother's milk.

The second consideration is the nutritional value of the milk. Cow's milk contains only a little more than half as much sugar as mother's milk, so that has to be supplied.

The sugar of mother's and cow's milk is the same—lactose. But what form of sugar is used to step up the cow's milk formula makes little difference—lactose, maltose, dextrin preparations or the ordinary cane sugar you use in your coffee.

Formula For Baby's Bottle
The formula for the baby on cow's milk is:

Whole Milk . . . 7 ounces (or evaporated milk 3 ounces)
Sugar 1/2 ounce
Water up to 10 ounces

Divide this into the number of feedings required.

The baby needs 45 calories per pound of weight per day. To find out how much of the above formula it needs divide the caloric requirement by 20, and the result is the number of ounces of the formula you need. (Example: for an 8 pound baby—18 ounces in 24 hours.)

Up to two months give 5 or 6 feedings in 24 hours of 3 to 4 1/2 ounces per feeding.

Additions to milk dietary. All cow's milk, (except irradiated), and for safety's sake mother's milk needs the addition of Vitamin D in the form of cod liver oil (2 teaspoonfuls daily or 4 drops of a concentrate). Also Vitamin C should be supplied in the form of fresh orange juice—a teaspoonful a day and rapidly increased until the juice of one orange a day is given. Cow's milk also needs iron to be supplied independently of the feedings.

Extra food the first year. Modern children's practice believes in furnishing extra food besides milk early in life—much earlier than was formerly the practice. The following indicates the schedule:

Range of Variation in America
Cereal 2 to 4 months.
Vegetables (pureed at first, afterwards whole) 2 to 6 months.
Fruit 3 to 7 months.
Breadstuffs (zweibach, toast) 5 to 8 months.
Egg 3 to 6 months.
Meat 5 to 10 months.

1. OBJECTIVES:
GENERAL—From worksheet develop a profit and loss statement. From worksheet develop a balance sheet.

SPECIFIC—To learn the use of these financial reports. Learn the most systematic way, also easiest to set up these reports.

2. DEVICES OR APPROACH FOR REACHING OBJECTIVES:
First we'll work out a worksheet on blackboard, then discuss why we need the profit and loss statement and balance sheet. We then develop first the profit and loss statement—because the profit and loss columns are first, we do this on the blackboard. Then we make our balance sheet. After this we'll fill out the Study guide in workbook to make sure the explanation has been clear.

Yankee Senorita

CHAPTER FORTY-THREE

FOR A MOMENT, after Manuella had spoken, the quartet was silent. Manuella and Carlos stared at the two Americans as if they should have known all along that they were Manuella and Carlos Estrada. Which they should have.

Mallory put the apologies into words. "If I'd paid any attention to names that day of the interview—"

"If there had been introductions in your apartment," cut in Richard Blythe, "instead of Broadway-style instantaneous friendship—first names—"

Manuella interrupted him. "But we like that sort of Americanism. That is, Carlos and I do. My mother thinks it is terrible."

Her brother stopped her. "But mother is not home yet—quite yet, anyway."

"But soon. Very soon," said Manuella sadly.

Mallory took a sip of tea, flavored with lime. "I understand all the chaperone talk now, Manuella, just as I was preparing to ask you how you could dash everywhere with Carlos and still adhere to custom. You do remember fussing because Carlos and I were in the kitchenette together last night, don't you?" Her violet-blue eyes held a taunting gleam.

"Remember—ah, don't tease me, Mallory, my friend. If you think I am strict, wait. Just wait!"

She raised her gold-braceleted hand in an imperious gesture. "With father and mother in Rio I have been able to live half way as does an American girl. My good Senorita Dolores permits me to go out with Carlos, knowing that I have a bit more amusement. Flirtation, she says, is right for a girl. It makes her settle down and be a better wife."

Carlos spoke for the first time, a quite American observation. "So my sister Manuella should make an excellent wife, because she is the excellent first."

Everyone laughed. Mallory more than the others. She leaned back and relaxed. The relationship explained so many things that had seemed fantastic; she felt happier than she had in days.

Richard Blythe, however, was up. "What about the future? Shall I see you, Manuella, or shall I have to see a ten-foot wall?"

"You'll see me. We are not quite that medieval," for an instant she gazed at his disgruntled face. "You know, Richard, when we are in the States we try to comply with your code, to respect it. Tell me, why are so many Americans determined not to do that much for the Latin-Americans?"

Her dulcet voice made the stern engineer squirm like a schoolboy. He gave a shame-faced grin. "I cringe."

"We'll all see each other. Decorously, naturally," the Mexican girl ate some strawberries and sipped strong black coffee. "But that, in view of other worries, should take second place. This danger of John and William Smith should come first." Bowing slightly, she gave a Spanish greeting to two elderly men in black suits. Carlos also bowed and spoke, dropping Mallory's hand to his waist. Instantly he seated with his own warm ones. Manuella was saying, "Don't be angry, Richard, with Mallory because she confided in us. We also hate the men."

"I told you they were allies," reminded the blond girl.

"To be trusted," Carlos' tone was sincere. "Please believe that."

Richard Blythe nodded in curt acknowledgment, then asked the blond girl, "Do they know everything?"

"No. Just about my trip down."

"What do you mean by everything? I want to know everything," the Mexican girl insisted.

Wasting no words, Blythe told about Prism's having been dragged. After this information he turned to Mallory. "Does she know what was the matter?" he asked.

"Goodness, no!" She'd have grabbed a meat cleaver and been right after those "baboons," as she calls them. She thinks it was too much aspirin, too much work, too much altitude."

"Fine," pronounced the engineer. "I believe I have a lead on the murdered man." His careful voice brought the other three to the edge of their seats. "I'm afraid it was a confederate of mine."

"Oh, Richard," gasped the singer.

The Mexican girl said nothing, but her beautiful hand rested for an instant on his arm.

"Another engineer," he said. "One who worked with me a short time. He was to go back to Washington for a short time, then return, not here, but to Yucatan. He never got to Washington." His eyes answered to Mallory's. "That is where I had been when I saw you on the hop to Dallas. I went back to tell all I knew about his work here. He hadn't been through the customs on the American side. He hadn't been seen in the bordertown. He just disappeared."

"I think," resumed Richard Blythe, "that he was on the trail of this dope angle before I caught on. He probably was watching John and William Smith. Then they began watching him. And now," he stated in a voice that held an ominous note, "I am watching John and William Smith."

"We all are," vowed Manuella. "But, Richard," she cried suddenly, "you are in the same danger as your friend? Yes?"

"No, I'm not, because he never pretended anything but contempt for the Germans. I am their pal." The man lighted a cigarette from the stub in his hand, then changed his mind and snuffed it out. "I am sure I'm not suspected. Mallory is the only one suspected."

"But we shall give to her our care," said Carlos in an intense way.

"Yes," said Richard, "and that of the deputados. I have told them of your danger, Mallory. They are protecting you."

"Good," said Manuella. "Tell me, Richard, how long will it be before these men will be punished?"

"As soon as the deputados have checked the murder. Even without that crime they have plenty on them with just the drug charge. They have ruined many of the natives, not only with the actual drug, but by paying them to get it into the States to men like Dr. Courvier." He laughed briefly. "Your car must really have given them a jolt, Mallory. They were in cahoots with the doctor."

"It was foolish ever to hope they had not seen me. And foolish to hope I could make them think I had not seen them—but I'll never understand their picking the highway as the fatal spot."

"Just as we decided," repeated Manuella, "that night at your apartment. They did not expect a car to come along."

"The dusk hid them safely from all eyes," said Carlos.

"They hoped," supplied Blythe. "Probably Sam—if it was Sam—took a while longer to die than they'd planned on. He was a tough hombre."

"No doubt they left the engine running."

Richard Blythe looked at the Mexican girl with pride. "I'm sure you are right. That is why they didn't hear Mallory. And without lights they couldn't see her until she was upon them. I imagine Sam was dressed as a peon for his own protection. John and William turned that disguise to their own advantage. Oh, I'm sure they'll learn it was Sam."

"How will they know?" Mallory's words were weak.

"By bones, teeth, all that sort of thing," said Blythe, in a carefully controlled voice. "Just like the murder mystery you buy to read on the train. It's all part of being my kind of engineer," he added with a wry smile. "We're apt to be found in most any section. You'll never know, Mallory, what a help you have been. All from meeting you on the plane. Most fortunate."

Manuella suggested, "Let us all have a brandy and drink to a prompt arrest."

"Or something," said Richard Blythe, "as effective as arrest."

To add her sincerity to that of the others, Mallory had a small sip of brandy from Carlos' glass. The group talked a few minutes longer about trivial things, and finally the luncheon was over, as Mexican lunches are, approximately two hours after it had commenced. The four separated. Carlos to the bank. Manuella, in her chauffeur machine, to a siesta. Richard Blythe to some mysterious appointment. Mallory to the "Palace of Fine Arts."

Sandy was there, just as she had left him, still practicing on his own music. They worked together for a little more than an hour, then went to their hotels.

"Any message from Mr. Patrick?" Mallory asked just inside her front door.

"No'm," responded Prism sadly. "Just who does he think he is," the girl demanded silently.

Understand Your Federal Income Tax

DEDUCTIONS FOR CASUALTY LOSSES AND THEFTS

Losses arising from fires, storms, shipwrecks or other casualty, or from theft, are allowable deductions from income, in computing Federal normal tax and surtax (but not in computing victory tax). Thus, if a taxpayer's home is destroyed by fire or damaged by flood, or storm, or his automobile is wrecked, or if his property is stolen, he may claim a deduction for the loss sustained, provided, of course, that he is not compensated for it by insurance or otherwise.

The amount of such loss if incurred in connection with a trade or business is entered in Schedule C (2) to arrive at the net profit (or loss) shown in item 8 of the return Form 1040; other losses are entered as item 14 of "Deductions" in return, Form 1040, and must be explained in Schedule G of the return form. On short Form 1040A, no deduction for losses should be entered because the tax table on this form already allows the benefit of an average amount for such deductions.

The intent of the law regarding deductions for casualties generally, is to allow for losses caused by natural forces. Such losses may be either of a personal or a business nature. However, to be an allowable deduction, the loss must not arise from the willful act or negligence of the taxpayer. For instance, damage sustained by a car by collision or accident is a deductible loss, unless the damage is due to a willful act or negligence on the part of the taxpayer. Faulty driving would not be classified as negligence, but driving while intoxicated would be so regarded.

Likewise, in the case of claims for loss of property by theft or burglary, it must be established that the property actually was stolen and not merely mislaid or lost.

In the case of insured property, the amount of recovery through insurance must be taken into account in determining the amount of net loss, if any.

The amount of loss allowable in the case of property damaged or destroyed is frequently difficult of determination. A general rule is that the loss is measured by the difference in the value of the property immediately before and immediately after the casualty. The loss on a wrecked car would be the difference between its market value just before the accident and the salvage value after the accident. In the case of trees, or ornamental shrubbery, destroyed by a sleet or snow storm, the measure of the loss is the loss in the value of the property of which they were a part, that is, the reduction in the value of the property arising from the casualty. This may or may not be the same as the value of the particular trees or shrubs destroyed.

Also in determining the amount of loss, sentimental values are excluded, for the reason that such values cannot be measured. Losses claimed must, in general, be related to market value of the property affected by the casualty. Losses claimed for the destruction, damage, or theft of family portraits, heirlooms, or keepsakes, must be based upon loss of intrinsic value apart from the sentimental value.

A further rule regarding deductions for losses from casualties and thefts is that such losses are deductible only in the year in which they are sustained even though they may not be discovered until a year later.

A deduction for loss from casualty or theft may be allowed to the owner of the property with respect to which the loss is sustained.

In computing the victory tax net income, only those losses are deductible which are incurred either (1) in a trade or business, or (2) in the production or collection of income, or (3) in the management, conservation, or maintenance of property held for the production of taxable income. However, losses from the sale or exchange of capital assets are not deductible, since gains from such assets are not includible in victory tax gross income. Deductible losses should be reported in Schedule C (2). Losses for wagering transactions are allowable only to the extent of gains from such transactions.

William Horney Chapter of DAR Has Colonial Tea

Seven Washington C. H. women were guests of the William Horney Chapter of the DAR in Jeffersonville, when the chapter entertained with a colonial tea at the Methodist Church in Jeffersonville.

Mrs. A. W. Duff, Mrs. John M. Weade, Mrs. W. A. Creamer, Mrs. W. R. Hook, Mrs. Harry DeWitt, Mrs. Robert D. Miller and Mrs. Wallace Perrill, of Washington C. H., attended the tea.

Rev. W. S. Alexander was the guest speaker and a musical program, given by pupils in Jeffersonville schools, was directed by Mrs. Elizabeth Dunkle, music supervisor and Mrs. Louis Ulen, fourth grade teacher.

Regent Mrs. J. C. Cannon presided at the meeting. Chaplain, Mrs. H. J. Smith, read the DAR prayer, after which the flag chairman, Mrs. W. W. Williams, led in the Pledge of Allegiance to the flag.

Rev. Alexander based his speech on "National Defense," on the scripture reading with which he opened his talk. He spoke of the founders of our government who came to America to establish religious freedom.

The early colonists in North America came seeking God; those who went to South America went seeking gold, he said. Discussing enemies against which America must fight, he classified them as external and internal enemies. "The internal enemies are the most dangerous," he said.

"The four great institutions which must be kept intact are religious, educational, social and political," Rev. Alexander declared. He closed his speech by quoting Lincoln: "I am not concerned about God being on our side, but I am concerned about our being on God's side."

Opening the pleasant musical program, fourth grade pupils sang, "I'm a Yankee Doodle Dandy," and "You're a Grand Old Flag." A patriotic skit, "For Victory," followed the songs. Carroll Knecht recited "George Washington," Beverly Coil recited "February Birthdays," Alvin Long sang, "Jolly Molly Pitcher."

A piano duet, "Liberty Bell March," by Louise Boocoo and Jo

Senior Party Is Jolly Affair Here Thursday Eve

The eighty members of the senior class of Washington High School enjoyed a most delightful class party Thursday evening, and the entertainment for the evening had been capably planned by various committees.

In groups of twenty-five they assembled at the home of John Craig on Circle Avenue for the serving of fruit cocktail by a committee in charge of this.

In relays the guests were served there, then went to the high school where a committee served steaming hot bowls of chili, in the school cafeteria. Then each group went to Trimmer's for the serving of dessert after which they all returned to the high school auditorium for the evening's program.

A musical number by a group of senior musicians under the direction of Mr. Paul Fitzwater, presented the opening to the program. Mildred Daulton cleverly sang a vocal number after which Bobby Lou Speaks and Nancy Lee James capably gave a piano duet. Patty Cabbage gave a vocal solo. Jane Pittenger then gave a vocal solo, followed by a string trio, composed of Mr. Karl J. Kay, Myrtis Bailey, violin and Virginia Bidwell, violon with Nancy Lee James at the piano, which gave two selections.

Hilariously enjoyed proposals then took place by four girls from the class and Carol McCoy was awarded the prize for her proposal to Mr. Kay. Another prize to the best couple where the girl brought the boy went to Ruth Adams and John Craig.

A number of selections by the Bathroom Quartet, composed of David Young, Gordon Davis, Frank Jean and David Ellis, closed the program.

The seniors then assembled in the high school gymnasium, which was gaily decorated with suggestions of Valentine, Lincoln's birthday and George Washington's birthday and dancing was enjoyed to the music of a group of senior musicians, directed by Paul Fitzwater.

Mr. Karl J. Kay is the senior class advisor.

Ann Nance, opened the high school portion of the program. Luetta Cook sang "Hail, George Washington," and "The Lilac Tree."

"Amaryllis" was the instrumental ensemble's number with Norma Jean Wilt at the piano. The girls' vocal ensemble sang "Oh Dear, What Can The Matter Be," and a special arrangement of "America," with Ruth Eleanor Wiseman at the piano.

Mrs. W. W. Williams, Mrs. Harold Zimmerman, Mrs. Lorin Ritenour, Mrs. F. R. Marshall and Mrs. A. E. Kemp, the year book committee, assisted by Mrs. J. A. Wissler, Mrs. H. J. Smith and Mrs. Willis French, were hostesses.

The tea table was perfectly appointed, decorated with a patriotic color scheme. Mrs. Wissler and Mrs. Smith poured. The tea delicacies, assorted sandwiches, cookies and candies were served by the hostesses during the delightful social hour.

Other guests were Mrs. Foster Janks of Jamestown, Rev. and Mrs. W. S. Alexander, Mrs. Alvin G. Little, Mrs. Marvin Brown, Mrs. Max Morrow, Mrs. Arthur Porter, Mrs. Ray Rumer, Mrs. G. L. Bush, Mrs. C. D. Bush, Mrs. J. E. Robbins, Mrs. Leora Boocoo, Mrs. Roy Fults, Mrs. E. R. Rector, Mrs. Ora Allen and Miss Maude Routsen.

The First Baptist Church Choir Has Enjoyable Supper

Thursday evening, Rev. and Mrs. H. B. Twining were hosts to the members of the choir of the First Baptist Church, the occasion being a covered dish dinner.

The guests were seated at daintily appointed tables where a Valentine motif was carried out. Tall red tapers in crystal holders with clever red heart arrangements around each holder were arranged against the white table linen background. A centerpiece of sweetpeas and greenery in a white bowl centered the bountiful laden serving table where numerous good dishes were served. Miss Lorie Merritt was presiding at the silver coffee service.

Following the congenial dinner hour, the choir practiced on Easter music under the direction of the choir leader, Miss Mary Jane Townsley, with Miss Merritt at the piano.

The remainder of the evening was spent in playing games and a gay spirit prevailed throughout the evening.

The Forest Shade Juvenile Grange Has Jolly Meeting

The Forrest Shade Juvenile Grange met at the New Martinsburg Town Hall for their regular monthly meeting which was opened by the master, Eddie Stratton.

During the course of the business session it was voted to buy a bond during the 4th War Loan Drive with the money received from the Fayette County Fair exhibit.

On the program for the evening were the Bayer sisters, Mary, Betty and Lois, who gave several clever numbers. The Juvenile Boys then sang a number after which interesting facts concerning the first president of the United States were given by George Smith. A piano solo and a song cleverly presented by Bobby Lee Creamer closed the program.

An exchange of Valentines around a prettily decorated Valentine box was then enjoyed by the twenty-two members present, and the meeting closed with the usual order.

The Progress Club Of Jeffersonville Has Feb. Session

An interesting meeting of the Jeffersonville Progress Club was held at the home of Miss Maude Routsen with nineteen members answering to the roll call of Southern Flowers.

The first paper of the evening, "New Orleans Before and During Mardi Gras," was given by Maude E. Straley.

Mardi Gras has been known to Louisiana since the year 1699, when Iberville took possession of the country. Since 1857 it has been celebrated with great splendor by the people of New Orleans. On Mardi Gras the city is turned over to King Rex and his mystic crew of Comus, a brilliant feature of both the day and evening celebration is an elaborate parade, including a procession of floats on which characters pose in tableaux representing legends, fiction or historical events. After the parade a grand festival ball is held in the Old French Opera House and it is not until midnight that the sounds of revelry pass into silence.

The second paper of the evening, "Azalea Trails," by Mary Allen, took us through some of the beautifully privately owned Azalea gardens of the southland. In North America, there are many species of azaleas, their colors ranging through all shades of pink and red. Also white, yellow and purple azaleas are by no means uncommon. These gardens are wonderful creations and to the tourist they appeal with their beauty and sweetness, to the owner they bring happiness, peace and comfort, and a bit of pride in being classed as one of the gardens shown in the azalea trails. In closing she spoke of the beauty of the parks of the south. From intimate contact with scenes of beauty and grandeur, you are inspired to a better purpose and a greater accomplishment in your daily task of life. This is the state or nation repaid for their investments.

The fortnightly luncheon-bridge was entertained at the Washington Country Club Thursday afternoon and seven tables of members and guests were served a most tempting and appetizing luncheon by the club hostess, Mrs. Hazel Devins. Decorations were clever arrangements of greenery, American flags and miniature log cabins, suggestive of Lincoln's birthday.

Hostess for this affair was Mrs. Howard Fogle and she was capably assisted by Mrs. H. H. Denton and Mrs. J. E. McLean.

Following the luncheon which was served at the prettily decorated tables, the afternoon was spent in numerous rounds of bridge. Score prizes were awarded to Mrs. J. J. Kelly and Mrs. W. L. O'Brien.

Mrs. Bricker's Campaigning Incidental She Says at First Press Conference

By EDITH GAYLORD

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—(AP)—

Mrs. John W. Bricker, third-term mistress of the Ohio governor's mansion whose husband aspires to the Republican presidential nomination, said it would be "foolish" to predict how she might fill the role of first lady.

"I don't know what the requirements would be as first lady," she asserted. "I don't think anyone can say what she would do in a given situation until she's there. Wait until after the nomination and election, then ask me."

At her first press conference in the capital yesterday, Mrs. Bricker said she admires President Roosevelt's wife for her ability and personality. She remarked also that she enjoys travel but has "never been the vigorous campaigning type."

"My campaigning is incident-tal, although I hope it adds up," she said.

Mrs. Bricker answered questions at a predominantly feminine press conference after the governor concluded a session with newsmen.

The Republican aspirant's wife claimed "a sphere of my own" in political convictions which seldom touches issues on which her husband comments. She declined to comment on the question of subsidies, although admitting the problem was of concern to a housewife.

As for national service legislation, she said she did not think "that has been proven necessary."

"Government should be kept responsible to the will of the people and be kept in the hands of the representatives of the people," Mrs. Bricker said. "Read my husband's speech about that. I feel the same way—that as much control as possible should be kept within the state."

Mrs. Bricker side-stepped comment on a reporter's remark that when the Democrats were out of office they screamed about state's rights and now the Republicans seemed to be doing the same.

In postwar settlements and policies, Mrs. Bricker said she believes the role of women should be "interest, understanding and faith that it will be a better world tomorrow than today."

Asked her opinion of a proposed equal rights for women amendment, Mrs. Bricker replied she was not familiar with the bill but she thought "women have proved themselves well able to hold their own."

If she were first lady, newspaperwomen asked Mrs. Bricker, would she hold press conferences as instituted by Mrs. Roosevelt. "If I thought they would be helpful or necessary," the Ohio governor's wife replied, "I'd be glad to."

Mrs. Bricker, who said she was a "side-door" White House visitor some 15 years ago when she was "in awe" of the place, told reporters this "press conference business" was a new experience for her.

Like Mrs. Roosevelt, however, she greeted each reporter personally. Unlike Mrs. Roosevelt, she said she placed "no restrictions" on admitting men to the conference.

"Women who have the bent and ability should take more interest in politics," Mrs. Bricker replied to a query on how she felt about women in politics.

As wife of the governor of Ohio, Mrs. Bricker said, "my job is sponsorship" of welfare drives, educational groups and hospital work. She is wartime chairman of the county nurses' aide committee, and also has worked in the blood donor drive.

Dressed in a tailored black suit, white blouse, medium-heeled, open-toed black pumps and wearing pearl earrings beneath softly waved and pinned back light brown hair, Mrs. Bricker said though she had arrived in Washington at 6:30 A.M., she felt as though she'd been here "three days already."

Reminded of a luncheon engagement and a fully scheduled afternoon, she refused to cut short the press conference which lasted about 20 minutes.

Mrs. Bricker said she accompanies her husband on political trips whenever possible and sometimes makes appearances for him when he can't accept all invitations.

Since her husband has been in politics all of their married life, almost 24 years, Mrs. Bricker said her interest in politics dates that far back.

The Brickers have a 13-year-old son, John Day Bricker.

The day you threw a party instead of buying a bond

It was the 26th of May, 1943.

To you, it was a heavenly Spring day that just had to be celebrated in some way. Besides, you were so bored with all the talk and headlines of war.

To our men on Attu, it was the fifteenth day of incessant fighting. That is, to those who had not been killed, or put out of action with wounds or frozen feet.

They hadn't slept for days; their sunburned faces ached; their heads and beards and wool-covered bodies itched; their feet were never dry. The dead lay all about them in the fog and snow—an occasional Jap, twisted grotesquely in death, over the body of an American.

But the biggest push of the battle was just ahead.

They had to attack a Jap-held plateau called the Bench, which meant scaling a steep cliff, in the face of continuous gunfire from the Japs, snugly entrenched on top. The final 25 yards were so steep, the soldiers had to drag themselves up by plunging their rifle butts into the snow.

The Japs lay quietly in wait, until our men were almost to the summit. Then, without rising from their fox holes, they rolled grenades down on them. Three times new groups of Americans scaled up the cliff—to be blown to eternity.

And suddenly—one American stood alone on the Bench. With his rifle pointed down, he walked deliberately from one fox hole to another, shooting into them with deadly accuracy. Impervious to the Jap grenades all about him, he went on, finally using his gun butt to bash the Japs as they trembled in their holes.

He was still bashing away when our troops finally reached him.

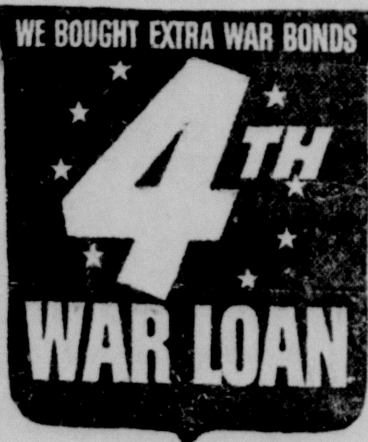

Asked later how he did it, he explained his best friend had been killed as they started up the slope and he didn't remember anything after that.

Asked by his Colonel what he wanted, he said since he'd been a Corporal so long, Sergeant's stripes would be nice.

He got his stripes and he's mighty gratified. He did not get an invitation to your party, but that's alright—he was too busy to attend.

Did you have a good time at your party?

Incidentally the price of that party would have bought an extra Bond. The 4th War Loan is now on. Every American is asked to put at least $100 extra into Bonds while this Drive is on. Not your regular Bond investing, but extra. $100 at least—or $200, $300, $500.

Let's all BACK THE ATTACK!

CANNED FOODS NOT GONE FROM COUNTY'S HOMES

144,349 Cans of All Kinds of Foods Used Monthly Under Rationing Program

Rationing has not emptied the shelves in Fayette County homes of canned foods and neither has it caused housewives to throw away their can openers.

This became apparent when A. H. Nugent, general sales manager of the American Can Co., revealed that a total of 144,349 cans of all kinds of food were being bought monthly in the county. This was in addition to the thousands of cans of home packed fruits and vegetables grown in Victory gardens last summer.

The figures compiled by Nugent were based on data concerning ration books in the county and a statement by the U. S. Bureau of Agricultural Economics that the per capita consumption of canned goods during 1943 was 225 cans.

Nugent, added incidentally, that on the basis of average size of pre-war cans, approximately 349 pounds of pure metallic tin is reclaimable from these cans for the war effort. The extent of the salvage, however, is in direct proportion to the success of periodical can collection campaigns.

Men in service eat 8,000,000 cans of food a day and millions of pounds of canned items are being shipped abroad for lend lease, Nugent said.

Many foods strange to American palates are being packed in cans for shipment overseas. One of these is "tushonka" for Russian consumption, this product being highly seasoned pork packed in lard. Squid, a variety of octopus, is being canned for Italian consumption. Canned foods for England are usually seasoned quite differently to those intended for American use, Mr. Nugent said.

ICE BREAKS, BOY DROWNS

ELYRIA, Feb. 11.—(P)—Robert Brown, three-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence H. Brown, fell through half-inch ice over a river near his home and drowned.

Federal Ballot Backers For Soldier Vote Ignore Constitution; Says Brown

"The real question before us, and the one we (members of Congress) must decide, is the short abbreviated federal ballot versus the complete state ballot," Rep. Clarence J. Brown, who represents this, the seventh, Ohio district in the national congress, declared in summing up the soldier vote issue which has riddled the nation's lawmaking bodies with bitter bickering and debate for the past several weeks.

Rep. Brown points out that there is a constitutional question involved in consideration by Congress of the short federal ballot and charges that those who favor it have attempted to brush aside the legal phases and adds that "champions of the federal ballot idea have too often in the past demonstrated their disregard—if not their disrespect—for the constitution."

In station his position on the soldier vote issue, the congressman who represents Fayette County in the nation's capital declared:

"Before coming to Congress I served for many years as chief election officer for the State of Ohio. I enjoyed a longer tenure in that particular office than any other individual in the history of my state. It was during my administration that the new Ohio Election Code, which has since been used as a model by many of the other states of the Union, was written and made effective."

"Ohio was also one of the pioneer states in providing for absentee voting. In the 1942 elections the sons and daughters of Ohio serving in the armed forces cast more absentee ballots than any other state. In fact, more than one-fourth of the total number of absentee ballots cast by all our fighting forces in the 1942 election were tallied and counted in Ohio."

"For these reasons, and because of my sincere conviction that those who fight for their country in its hour of peril are entitled to the opportunity to vote, I wish to discuss the legislation now before us. Like our president, I am an interested citizen; I am also vitally and intensely interested in seeing to it that every one of America's defenders is given the opportunity to vote a real American ballot in a real American way. I believe in the soldier voting, but I am opposed to any one voting the soldier."

"We should be able to agree on these two premises: First, that the men and women in our armed services should not only have the right to vote, but should also be given every possible opportunity to vote. Second, that the Congress of the United States and every member of it, along with all other right thinking Americans, are desirous that those in our fighting forces be given the right and opportunity of franchise."

"Want To Give Servicemen Vote?" "Of course, there are some who are so politically minded as to hope to gain partisan advantage from the type and kind of legislation we enact here. To those individuals I can only point the finger of scorn. They are unworthy of this republic and the flag for which our men are fighting and dying. Let it be written in America's legislative history that the end purpose of all of us who serve here in the Congress is the same—to give American fighting men and women every opportunity to vote, and to participate in the democracy they are sacrificing to save."

"Some of us believe our fighting forces should be furnished with a new type of ballot—a short federal ballot—which will give only the opportunity to vote for President, Vice President, United States Senator and Representative in Congress, under the direction and control of federal officials. Others of us believe our fighting sons and daughters should be permitted to vote a regular state ballot, which contains not only the names of the candidates for national office, but likewise those of the candidates for state and local offices. So the real question before us, and the one we must decide, is the short abbreviated federal ballot versus the complete state ballot."

"The proposed short federal ballot is something new. It has never been used before in America. There is a real constitutional question as to the legality of such a ballot. Those who favor it have, of course, attempted to lightly brush aside this question of constitutionality. This is not unusual for many of the champions of the federal ballot idea have too often in the past demonstrated their disregard—if not their disrespect—for the Constitution. Yet we who serve here, under an oath to support and defend that Constitution, cannot and must not disregard or disrespect it. Neither should we forget that the very men and women in whose interests we are considering this legislation are fighting and dying to protect and preserve the Constitution and the representative form of government built here in America upon its solid foundation. Whether you agree as to the constitutional right of this Congress to provide for this new type of federal ballot, every fair-minded man and woman in this body must admit there is a grave question if the various states can be required to accept and count a federal ballot which is so different from the one provided by any state law. If such a federal ballot is adopted and is later held to be illegal and unconstitutional, then the election of the President and Vice President of the United States, and of every member of Congress, will be placed in question and in jeopardy and the affairs of the nation will be thrown into turmoil and chaos."

"That, my colleagues, is the inherent weakness of the national ballot plan. Can we risk the dangers its adoption involves?"

"But there is another fatal weakness in the federal ballot that we should consider. Remember, please, the federal ballot will not carry the printed names of any of the candidates for the Senate or the House, and probably not for the President and Vice President. Instead only blank spaces will be provided where the soldier voter may write in the names of those for whom he wishes to vote. Of course, the ballot will give him an opportunity to vote either Democratic or Republican, but without even knowing who the party candidates may be, I ask you, is that a good voting procedure? Is it conducive to a wise choice of representation in the Congress of the United States?"

"The average man or woman serving overseas will have little or no opportunity to know who the candidates for the House and Senate may be. If they remember the names of anyone in connection with a Congressional office it will be the names of those of us who are now serving here—your name and mine. Certainly they will not recall, or even know in most instances, the names of our opponents."

"Oh! I know we have been promised, if we will adopt this federal ballot with the blank spaces on it, that the names of all candidates for Congress, and perhaps also for the Presidency, will be radioed all over the world to our troops on foreign shores, and that they will be kept informed as to political developments here on the home front. That promise, my friends, carries with it one of the real, if hidden, dangers contained in the Federal ballot plan. How and by whom will this information be furnished, I ask? The obvious answer is, of course, by and through a series of fireside chats—presumably by an interested citizen. Remember, when your name is printed on a ballot along with that of your opponent you know you have a fair show for your white ally. But when you depend upon others to mention your name as a candidate—well—it is altogether possible they might mispronounce it, or even entirely forget it, and not mention it at all. Who can tell?"

"It is claimed the use of state ballots for overseas voting will prove cumbersome and unworkable, and will require the changing of many state laws. Let me answer that argument by saying frankly that regardless of which ballot plan is adopted—federal or state—the laws or probably every state in the Union will have to undergo some change to meet the new and unusual situation which confronts us."

"It is contended by opponents of the state ballot plan that the various states will not cooperate with the federal government in getting state ballots to soldier voters. I deny this. I do not know of a single state in the Union that does not stand ready and willing to change its laws in any way that may be necessary to make state ballot use for soldier voters both possible and workable. I challenge anyone here to furnish information to the contrary. Let those who by innuendo slander the patriotism of the individual states stand on this floor and name such states, making their charges specific. Then let the representatives from those accused states answer in the name of their commonwealths."

"We have heard much from the proponents of the federal ballot plan that it will be a practical impossibility to get a state or any other kind of a ballot, except the short Federal ballot, to soldier voters on foreign soil and back again in time for counting in the next general election. They say it will be easy to distribute, vote, return and count the so-called bob-tailed federal ballot, but a gigantic and even impossible task to do the same thing with state ballots. Most of these individuals have always been quick to espouse and champion every program and policy of the New Deal, not only as to our fighting forces, but on the home front as well. They have always been quick to put their stamp of approval on that which their superiors desire, just as they have been quick to explain or to apologize for the failures of the New Deal. But, while we are not overly impressed by their claims, let us consider them."

State Ballot Can Be Delivered
"Explain to me, if you can, please, why, if you can deliver a short bob-tailed federal ballot to four or five million men and women overseas, you cannot deliver a little larger state ballot by the same methods to the same persons? The only real difference would be in the weight and in the size of the ballots, with the possible exception of a slight increase of effort here in the United States in gathering and preparing the various state ballots for delivery overseas. The actual transportation of the ballots overseas, the voting, delivery back home, and distribution to the various states and voting precincts, would be exactly the same."

"Some of the opponents of the state ballot plan are going a long way in their endeavor to defeat it. They are using such shameful tactics as threatening our fighting men and their families with a suspension of mail delivery to and from the battle fronts if the state ballot plan is adopted. They go so far as to say the use of state ballots would mean our soldiers and sailors would have all of their mail from home—their letters from mothers, fathers, wives and sweethearts—suspended or delayed for many weeks. My answer is shame. The gentlemen who have used this argument should apologize for it. Let me answer such a ridiculous claim by calling your attention to the simple fact that more than 14,000 tons of Christmas packages for overseas troops were cleared through the New York Postoffice alone in a few weeks last autumn, while the letters to and from home went through just the same."

"Let us stop and consider what this transportation problem as to ballots really is. The weight of the average state general election ballot is approximately one ounce, not the three ounces claimed by one of our high federal officials, who has never had a single day's experience in practical election matters. Let us add to this another half ounce for the envelope, which will make the state ballot and envelope to be sent our men and women overseas for the 1944 election weigh an average of one and one-half ounces. The President tells us we will have five million men and women overseas by November, 1944. Five million ballots weighing one and one-half ounces each equals 468,750 pounds or 234 1/2 tons. Let us make the total weight 240 tons, to be liberal. And then let us remember there is not a single fighting front anywhere in the world more than 90 hours away from the United States by air. Only a few are anything like that far.

"Informed colleagues here in Congress, as well as other experts, tell me the average cargo plane can and will carry eight tons of freight. This would mean only 30 cargo planes would be required to transport all of such state ballots to our overseas forces and back again, making only one round trip per plane. Of course, if each plane could make two round trips, or more, then the number needed would be reduced in direct ratio. (Most ballots can go by boat).
"In a message read from that rostrum a few days ago the cry of fraud was raised in connection with this legislation! Let me say to you, Mr. Speaker, if there is any fraud connected with this legislation, the perpetrators will be those who are endeavoring through the adoption of a federal ballot to take the vote from the very cream of our American manhood and womanhood—those who are fighting and dying for this nation. Taking away their right to vote for all their public officials. And instead are offering to them a make-shift un-American ballot of questionable legality in the hope that some political advantage may be gained therefrom. Those who in former years built their power on the suffering and misery of our people now wish to maintain and continue it at the expense of the ones who fight the nation's battles in its hour of greatest peril."

"I say to you—as one American sitting in the American Congress—I expect to cast my vote for the bill that will give to all the men and women who so proudly wear the uniform the same right to vote and the same kind of a ballot that I enjoy myself."

BASEBALL SAFE IN HANDS OF KIDS, SEMI-PRO COMMISSIONER IS SURE

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 11.—(P)—Speaking as one of the best informed men in America on the attitude of youngsters toward baseball, George Sisler, member of the game's Hall of Fame, scout for the Brooklyn Dodgers and commissioner of the National Semi-Pro Congress, is convinced the future of the national game is safe in the hands of "the kids."

-Spying- On Sports By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—(P)—A popular off-season pastime among football coaches seems to be stripping the "T" of some of its glamor. . . . Recently Cornell's Carl Snavely, who found many advantages, including "more fun for the players" in the "T" formation, said he would stick with the single wing because the man in motion could be used to better advantage in it. . . . And Colgate's Andy Kerr, who startled the natives both in New York and California by his varied offense in the East-West game, explains he used that game as a sort of football laboratory. . . . "It is my impression," writes Andy, "that the 'T' formation will be a very satisfactory supplementary formation to use. Personally I am not ready to adopt it in toto." . . . The next question is, what will Kerr adopt in Hamilton, N. Y. . . . He probably wishes it could be V-5 trainee Otto Graham.

Luisetti Lips Save Chops. The chops really were down in the recent St. Mary's Pre-Flight-Alameda Coast Guard basketball game when, with the score at 14-34, Bob Elm of St. Mary's was awarded two free throws. . . . Bob missed the first and Lieut. (jg) Hank Luisetti, former Stanford star, stroled over. . . . "Got a date tonight, pal?" he asked. . . . "Yes sir," said Elm. . . . "Well, you'd better sink that beauty or you'll be playing here all night and one of the other wolves will cop your gal." . . . Bob made the shot to give St. Mary's a 35-34 decision.

One-Minute Sport Page Cleveland's Mel Harder is the only American League pitcher who has a chance to hit the mark of 200 Major League victories this season. . . . Danny Doyle, the Oklahoma Aggies basketball player, may get two sets of training orders before court tournament time. Uncle Sam's may arrive before those from the Boston Red Sox.

Service Dept. Attention colleges: Floyd Bennett Field, N. Y., which has developed a pretty good basketball team, would like to book a few college rivals to entertain the station personnel but can't get a tumbler. . . . And Mitchell Field, L. I., has been able to coax only one, Williams, to visit the base. . . . Tommy Martin, the British heavyweight who fought such guys as Turkey Thompson in the U. S. a few years ago, was discharged from the British Merchant Marine because of wounds. Recovering in a Montreal hospital, he joined the United States Marines and is now at New River, N. C. . . . Doesn't he know when he's had enough?

Stagg Is Honored As Coach of Year

STOCKTON, Calif., Feb. 11.—(P)—The National Football Writers Association trophy was presented to Coach Amos Alonzo Stagg of the College of Pacific yesterday by Bill Leiser, sports editor of the San Francisco Chronicle. . . . The trophy is given annually to the person adjudged as contributing most to football during the year and will remain in Stagg's possession until a new recipient is designated at the end of the 1944 season.

ROOM AND BOARD

The former great first baseman of the St. Louis Browns said the spirit and eagerness to play, especially among the younger fellows at Dodgers' tryout camps, had shown him there was just as much enthusiasm for baseball as in his own boyhood days. . . . However, he admitted he had not seen any 16 or 17-year-olds who could fill the shoes of men in military service and overcome the major leagues' wartime player shortage. . . . Sisler was 22 years old when he made the jump from the University of Michigan in 1915. He came to the Browns as a pitcher but shifted to first base and compiled

WORLD SERIES DATE MADE WITH CZAR LANDIS BY FIVE YANKS WHO SEE WAR'S END

By CHARLES DUNKLEY CHICAGO, Feb. 11.—(P)—All it will cost five Army sergeants to witness the 1944 World Series eight months hence is their sixth sense. . . . They will be guests of Kenesaw Mountain Landis, baseball's 77-year-old commissioner. They wrote Landis that their "sixth sense" told them they would be back to attend the fall classic. The sergeants, presumably fighting overseas, advised Landis they would like to have the honor of being the first holders of tickets for the 1944 series games "no matter where played," and in so doing would be made "very happy." . . . Landis said he did not know where the soldiers were stationed. They merely signed their letter: "S/Sgt. Rodney N. Lewis, S/Sgt. Philip H. Candiloro, S/Sgt. James C. Putnam, S/Sgt. Eisel G. McFadden, S/Sgt. Steve J. Nester." . . . Landis wrote them, "more power to your sixth sense. You have a date with me at the 1944 World Series. Contact with me in time. We will see the ball games together." . . . "Wishing you and the whole

Racing Dates For Ohio To Be Set Soon

COLUMBUS, Feb. 11.—(P)—Secretary Helen R. Rickett reported today the State Racing commission would meet here February 29 to set dates for 1944 running and harness horse racing on eight Ohio tracks. . . . Applications for running races have been received from the following: . . . Thisledown at Cleveland, Aug. 29-Sept. 4 and Sept. 30-Oct. 22; River Downs at Cincinnati, May 27-July 8; Beulah Park at Columbus, May 6-30 and Aug. 26-Sept. 21; Ft. Steuben at Steubenville, July 15-Aug. 5 and Sept. 9-30; Ascot Park at Akron, June 3-24 and July 29-Aug. 19 and Hamilton, July 1-22. . . . North Randall at a Cleveland applied for running races May 26-June 24 and harness events June 26-July 15, while Marion asked June 15-July 5 for harness events.

Judges at Fights To Be Put on Spot

By TED MEIER NEW YORK, Feb. 11.—(P)—The New York State Athletic Commission has started a boxing innovation that soon may become a universal practice—that of announcing from the ring how each judge voted. . . . The idea was tried out last night in Madison Square Garden at the Tippy Larkin-Lulu Costantine 10-rounder, which Larkin, a 13 to 5 favorite, won easily. After announcer George Kobb had recited off over the public address system how each official voted, everyone asked his neighbor how he liked it. . . . It was the general opinion among ringsiders that it was a good thing. Several pointed out each official would tend to be extra careful.

Hialeah Railbirds Agog at Training Of Mystery Horse

By BERT COLLIER MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 11.—(P)—The mystery horse of the winter 'is the Irish-bred Princequillo, whose unorthodox training methods have thrown the clockers at Hialeah into a dither. . . . The 126-pound top-weighted candidate for the $25,000 Widener Handicap, which wraps up the Hialeah season March 4, gallops daily around the track but he runs for the fun of it and rival trainers have had no opportunity to check his speed. . . . Horatio Luro of the Boone Hall Plantation stables is responsible for the general bewilderment. He has decreed a regime of lazy lapses for the sleek bay four-year-old that crossed the Atlantic to become the "story book" horse of 1943. . . . Luro indicated he was serious after the Rochester winter purse when he announced this week that Conn McCreary, the star jockey who booted Princequillo home in several big stakes last year, would ride him in the mile and a quarter Widener. . . . Luro followed the same plan of easy conditioning for Princequillo at the New York tracks. He proved he was right when the son of Prince Rose and Cosquilla swept the Saratoga cup, the Saratoga handicap and the Jockey Club gold cup. . . . Princequillo is a possible starter in the $7,500 McClellan handicap Feb. 19, third Richerster purse at Hialeah and a Widener preview.

ALLIES FACING CRISIS IN POCKET IN ITALY AS REDS MOP UP GERMANS

(Continued from Page One) ings in the town of 15,000 and the leveling of the Cassino jail, strong German defense point, with artillery and tank fire. . . . Heavy fighting was in progress today against the British in the Carroccio area 16 miles below Rome. Americans west and south-west of Cisterna battled grimly to hold back German onslaughts. . . . The Russians pyramided their death blows on ten of Hitler's finest Eighth Army divisions, encircled at Korsun in the upper Dnieper bend. The rate of death and surrender increased as seven Russian columns pressed in from all sides for the most disastrous dissection of German army power in Russia since Stalingrad. . . . Further isolating Krivoi Rog and its iron mountain, the Russians drove on west of Apostolovo. Other Soviet spearheads aimed at the Black Sea ports of Kherson and Nikolaevo. . . . In the north, the drive toward Luga reached within seven miles of the rail center. . . . As the battle of Italy neared its decisive stage, the Allies gave the Badoglio government control of conquered southern Italy, Sicily and Sardinia—30,000 square miles and 10,500,000 people. . . . American Flying Fortresses Frankfurt-on-the-Main with tons of high explosive again today, striking the already hard hit southwest German industrial and transport center for the second time in four days and the fourth time since January 29. . . . While this devastating assault to flatten Frankfurt was in progress, Liberators again operated independently of the Forts, slashing at military installations in the Pas-de-Calais area and American Marauders in the ninth operation, July 11 days struck other targets in the "rocket gun" sector of northern France. . . . Today's operations followed up yesterday's mighty attacks on the German manufacturing city of Brunswick and Gilze-Rijen air base in Holland which precipitated furious air fights in which American heavy bombers and fighters were credited officially with downing 84 enemy planes. . . . Mustang, Lightning and Thunderbolt fighters escorted the Fortresses to Frankfurt, and other Thunderbolts covered the Liberators on their run to France. . . . The rumble of explosions rolled back across the English Channel this morning as the bombers hit the Pas-de-Calais area. . . . There was no early report of losses today but a U. S. communiqué said 29 American bombers and eight fighters were lost in yesterday's raids. . . . The fiercest opposition was encountered by Flying Fortress formations which struck at Brunswick in an attempt to knock out vital airplane assembly plants there. . . . It was the third heavy American attack upon Brunswick, and returning fliers said the Germans apparently sent every available fighter aloft in an effort to repel the assault. . . . In addition to the 84 German planes destroyed by American airmen yesterday, RAF Typhoons shot down six Nazi aircraft during forays over northern France in which U. S. Marauders participated. Three Allied planes were lost. . . . The Finns announced today 150 Russian planes bombed the industrial city of Kotka, 70 miles east of Helsinki on the coast of the Gulf of Finland, for two hours last night. . . . A broadcast communiqué said anti-aircraft fire kept most of the raiders from the center of the city but acknowledged some damage. . . . It was the second heavy aerial blow within a week seeking to hasten Finland's exit from the war. The attack upon Kotka, 80 miles across the Gulf of Finland from Narva, followed the 200-plane raid on Helsinki February 6. . . . "The attack lasted two hours," the communiqué said. "Only a few aircraft succeeded in dropping bombs on the town. Some damage was done to windows of buildings. According to incomplete reports eight civilians were killed and two wounded." . . . Two raiders were destroyed by anti-aircraft fire, the communiqué added. . . . Kotka, one of the centers of Finland's vast saw mill industry, had been bombed several times before the Finnish-Russian front lapsed into comparative inactivity.

the bowling battles on the Main Street alleys Thursday night. . . . The Mt. Sterlings won the first two games of their match without much difficulty and then, with the help of a 155-88 handicap, the Stone Crushers suddenly came to life with a bang and rolled a fat 938 to win the last game. . . . The Cokes whittled down the three-game gap separating them from the leading Mt. Sterling team when they started out with a 1009, followed that up with an 874 and then tapered off the evening with a 935. Four scores of better than 200 were turned in by the Cokes, with Yeran's 232 in the opener, the topper. The Pure Oilers, who rolled two good games but to no avail, gave up the battle in the last tilt and forfeited it. . . . GRAIN MARKET NEWS SUMMARY

CHICAGO, Feb. 11.—AP—Rye prices dropped more than a cent at one time today, going to new lows since mid-January, but a mild rally late in the session cancelled part of the loss. The weakness in rye unsettled wheat and oats, although losses in the latter two grains were never large and they rallied toward the close. . . . Selling in rye at the outset came mainly from commission houses, but it was notable that local professional traders were unwilling to give the market much aggressive support. The grain was also weak at Minneapolis and Winnipeg. Some traders felt the disturbing war news from the Allied beachhead in Italy caused the selling. . . . Wheat closed 1/4 lower to - higher, May $1.79 1/2, oats were unchanged to - lower, May 79, rye was down 1/2-3/4, May $1.28 1/2-3/4, and barley was 1/4-3/4 lower, May $1.25 1/2-3/4.

CHARLIE CHAPLIN ACCUSED OF MANN ACT VIOLATION; PRISON IF FOUND GUILTY

(Continued from Page One) the comedian would surrender to the U. S. marshal Monday, adding an appeal that the public withhold judgment until the film star "has had his day in court." . . . The conspiracy allegations are that Miss Berry's arrest was plotted, that she was refused access to legal counsel and finally intimidated into leaving California. . . . The six named with Chaplin in the conspiracy charges are Beverly Hills City Judge Charles Griffin; Capt. W. White, Lt. Claude Marple and Matron Jessie Billi Reno, of the Beverly Hills police department; Robert Arden, radio commentator whose real name is Rudolph Kligler, and Thomas Wells (Tim) Durant, former film studio official and a friend of Chaplin. . . . Chaplin's present bride is Oona O'Neill, 18-year-old daughter of the playwright, Eugene O'Neill, whom Chaplin married last June, two weeks after Miss Berry had sued on charges he was the father of her then unborn child. . . . A U. S. attorney's office attache said Chaplin, if convicted on all four indictments on which he is charged, would be liable to a maximum of 23 years in prison and fines totaling $26,000.

BROTHERS ARE INDICTED FOR ARMED ROBBERY

Clark and Paul Tipton Are Involved in Dozen Robberies

Clark Tipton, 25, and his brother, Paul, 20, both of Dayton, and both formerly of Washington C. H. where they have long records, were indicted by the Clinton County grand jury, Thursday, for the armed robbery of the Frank Terner service station on Christmas eve.

The two men have confessed to a series of 12 robberies in Ohio and Indiana in the last two months.

The brothers, held in the Clinton County jail, are to be arraigned Friday afternoon on the indictments, and are expected to plead guilty, inasmuch as they have admitted the robbery.

Police Chief Everett Downing, of Wilmington, announced that the number of robberies in which the brothers are implicated was increased to 12 when they made a full, signed confession to holding up four places in Columbus, two each in Middletown, Springfield and Dayton and one each in Richmond, Ind., and Wilmington. They had previously confessed to the robberies in Middletown and Wilmington, and Mrs. Pauline Tipton, wife of Clark, had told the officers her husband and his brother had staged nine robberies.

Their confession, Chief Downing said, added two more robberies in Columbus and another in Springfield to Mrs. Tipton's list.

A warrant for the two brothers for the robbery of a drugstore in Richmond, Ind., January 26, the last of their crimes was received at Wilmington, Thursday, and, with the one for one of the Middletown robberies, will be used as a "holder" for the Tipton brothers, Downing said.

The grand jury made a partial report as soon as it had considered the cases of the two brothers, so that they could be served with the indictments and be arraigned Friday as they must have the indictments 24 hours before arraignment.

WAR LOAN DRIVE STILL DRAGGING, FOUR DAYS TO GO

$4,102 Worth of Bonds Must Be Bought Each Hour To Meet Goal

Fayette Countians must buy $4,102 worth of War Bonds every hour between now and next Tuesday when the drive ends, in order to push the county over its Fourth War Loan goal.

The $393,760 left of the county's $906,000 quota represents the bonds $4,104 Fayette Countians haven't bought so far in the drive. The 1,896 people who have bought bonds account for the $512,239.50 already chalked up in the county's favor.

So far, the individual purchases in the county haven't even matched, man for man, the servicemen from the county who need the guns and ammunition War Bonds bought here will give them.

"American women can back the attack at home with anything from a blowtorch to a War Bond," Mrs. Henry Morgenthau, Jr., wife of the Secretary of the Treasury, declared on a national broadcast. Mrs. James N. Doolittle, wife of the General, interviewed Mrs. Morgenthau over the air.

"This is no war of watching and waiting for anyone," Mrs. Morgenthau said. "True, women do have to watch their men go off to do the actual fighting. They do wait anxiously for the day when they'll be back. But there shouldn't be anything passive about that waiting."

"There's scarcely an American home today that hasn't some member of the family in uniform. But women who haven't that stake must recognize an equal debt of gratitude to the neighbor's son or husband."

To Mrs. Doolittle's query concerning women's standing as bond buyers, Mrs. Morgenthau replied:

"Although women used to be looked upon as spenders, much of the saving is up to them now. In postponing buying, their money helps pay for the war now and they can look forward to satisfactory spending for the future."

Mrs. Morgenthau has two sons in the service.

MAIL BOXES TORN DOWN BY VEHICLE

Sheriff Notified and Is Making Investigation

Sheriff W. H. Icenhower is investigating complaints that someone driving a truck or other motor vehicle, tore down several mail boxes on the Leesburg Road, starting at the Fair Grounds and extending to Staunton, Tuesday night.

Tracks indicated the vehicle had been driven on the wrong side of the road to strike the posts, and in some instances posts were torn entirely out of the ground.

A few years ago a drunken driver of a truck tore down many posts along the Chillicothe road, was apprehended and heavily fined.

LARGE TRUCK LOAD OF RED CEDAR POSTS

A large truck load of red cedar fence posts, apparently from the southern Ohio hill region, was parked in this city Thursday night and Friday, as the owner sought to dispose of his unusual line of posts.

Usually the posts brought in here are black locusts, and an entire load of red cedar posts is somewhat rare.

THIRTY APPLY FOR WORK AT PEARL HARBOR

Probably Half of Those Applying Will Be Accepted

So far 30 men have applied here for jobs with the U. S. Government at Pearl Harbor, Hawaiian Islands, where there is urgent need for welders, mechanics and general repair workers, and men to learn various phases of work about the big Naval base where the Japs struck on December 7, 1941.

The big base has been spread out until its importance is by far greater than ever before, and need of civilian employees has grown rapidly in the past six months.

The call for workers to go to Pearl Harbor was made a short time ago, and two or three days this week government agents were at the U. S. Employment Bureau here where the applicants filled out their application blanks.

Work of investigating each individual will be carried forward at once, and it will be two or three weeks before the final investigations are completed and the group is ready for moving to Hawaii at government expense.

Many men who were turned down for the armed forces are included in the list seeking to join the army of workers at the fleet base.

REPORT ON CITY FILED BELATEDLY

Accounts Generally Found in Good Condition

After the lapse of seven months, a voluminous report on the city's affairs, made by state examiner Peter C. Rockel, covering the period of April 7, 1942 to June 30, 1943, has been filed with officials here.

No new findings of consequence are carried in the report, but it is noted that $949.48 of a total of $1,080.07 in findings made for the period ending April 7, 1942, remain unpaid, and that "practically all findings rendered by this department in the state examiner's report ending January 31, 1941, are still unpaid."

Generally the examiner found the records of various departments in good condition.

War Bonds should mean something more to you than just "a good sound investment." Figure it out yourself.
